

Ariel Neuman Named a Top 100 Lawyer by Daily Journal

Principal Ariel Neuman has been named a Top 100 Lawyer by the Daily Journal.

The annual publication recognizes the top practitioners considered “leaders in the California legal community.”

The Daily Journal profile highlights some of Mr. Neuman’s recent newsworthy cases, such as defending Tesla, Inc. against accusations made by the California DMV, and representing the Los Angeles Angels in the criminal investigation and civil litigation related to the fatal overdose of pitcher Tyler Skaggs. In the piece, Mr. Neuman also shares the challenges and most interesting aspects of being a white collar criminal defense lawyer.

This recognition by the Daily Journal adds to Mr. Neuman’s list of recent honors, including his Chambers USA ranking for Litigation: White-Collar Crime & Government Investigations, and being named the 2023 Criminal Defense: White-Collar Lawyer of the Year by Best Lawyers®. Mr. Neuman joins name principals Gary Lincenberg and Ekwan Rhow, who are previous Daily Journal Top 100 honorees.
