

Benjamin Gluck Defending Lead Defendant in $100M Healthcare Fraud Case Featured in LA Times

Partner Benjamin Gluck represents the lead defendant of a major healthcare fraud case, in which the Orange County District Attorney's Office alleged that his client orchestrated a scheme involving over $100 million in fraudulent billings. The Los Angeles Times noted Mr. Gluck's representation in their October 13th article on the workers' compensation fraud case.

Mr. Gluck focuses a significant portion of his practice on representing healthcare providers in state and federal criminal matters. He has secured the dismissal of major criminal charges as lead counsel in many high-profile, multi-defendant healthcare fraud cases.

Click here to read the full article in the Los Angeles Times (subscription required).